

This image displays a highly detailed and intricate repeating pattern, characteristic of traditional textile designs such as those found in Persian or Turkish carpets. The pattern is composed of a complex arrangement of interlocking geometric shapes, including squares, diamonds, and smaller, more complex motifs that create a sense of depth and movement. The color palette is primarily monochromatic, featuring various shades of blue (from light, airy tones to deep, rich blues) set against a white background. The overall effect is one of a dense, textured surface, reminiscent of a woven fabric or a stone mosaic. The pattern is uniform and covers the entire area, with no discernible text or specific figures.

SURYA